CALL FOR ARTISTS

DEADLINE: August 20th

September 15th to November 1st., 2018
Opening Reception Saturday, Sept.15th, 2 to 5 pm

There is a legend that Washington D.C. is built over a swamp, and occasionally rampant mosquito infestations have been known to spread disease.

During Donald Trump's presidential campaign, the catch phrase "Drain the Swamp", implied the promise of an upright, ethical administration that would not enrich itself through profit driven political opportunism. It would protect the rights of hard working Americans and "Make America Great Again". Well, after nearly two years into his presidency and as we stand ankle deep in the muck, Trump's corporate empire has flourished in the swamp. Former CEO cabinet officials, pro industrial lobbyists, private sector staffers, and other swamp creatures like the Koch brothers, briskly backstroked up the Potomac in their quest to brazenly line their alligator purses with billions of dollars by deregulating and dismantling federal policies instituted to protect and preserve our safety, health and freedom.

For this juried exhibition we're asking artists to submit work that investigates and reflects upon the idea of a swamp, and all things relating to it. Submissions need not be political in nature and as always, all media is accepted.
